SEEN, HEARD & TOLD BY THE EDITOR

We cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard. Acts 4:20

When Mabel and I got back Monday from a 2400-miles trip to Washington, etc., we were faced with the task of "picking up a lotta broken strands" - like getting the house clean, and of seeing how about things at the office (Dorothy and Andrew had everything in good shape there), then Mabel had to go to the farm at Oxberry. We also had to seek to get our feet back on the ground. I could have finished filling the GCW with the rest of our trip but things had happened in Grenada, Mississippi, and we had to try to have space for some of this.

One of the "broken strands" was a tale about George H. Lehleitner of New Orleans who spoke to the Lions and their guests Friday before we left, about the desirability of making Hawaii a state. Personally I think we have enough states already, but George made a fine "case", presented fairly and intelligently.

Jumping up in my face was a proposition to issue more bonds to give Grenada Industries more space to employ more people. Issuing bonds for this purpose is, we know, a gamble, and so is shooting dice a gamble. I would rather shoot dice with a pair of dice I know is "straight" than with unreliable dice. I would rather gamble on Grenada Industries (which we KNOW is OK) than with some tinknown, untried outfit of which we know nothing. As things develop and as I find out more, I MAY change my mind, but, offhand, I approve and say, let's go.

Even if the GCW is crowded this week, we refuse to let it go to press without mentioning Lawrence and Inez Tribble and their two daughters, who fed us so well during our short stay in Washington and who were so extremely kind and helpful in showing us so much of Washington in so short a time. Mrs. Tribble, the former Miss Inez Wolfe, taught Whyte Jr., Andrew and numerous other kids in the Holcomb School. Lawrence, being one of old man Jeff Staten's grandsons is blood-kin to half the folks of the county, and in-law kin to the rest of them.

We would be recreant to our sense of appreciation if we did not mention Herb and Billy Haracek, neighbors of the Tribbles, who put us up in their nice front bedroom for the two nights we were there, as their "guests", not as roomers. They not only opened their home to us, but their hearts also. We never knew finer young folks and, to them, we are eternally grateful for their many courtesies, not that Mabel and I were seeking ot live "on the country."

I have in mind a fine tale about "Miss Ella" Hudson and Aaron Hudson of Oxberry going to that wrestling match in Washington, but will have to put that tale "on ice."

Marriages, births, deaths, Gore Springs items, Fed Robinson's crap, - the grist that comes to the country newspaper mill - go on, hence the long-winded tale will have to be continued next week.

Other "broken strands": to get the name of Ellett Lawrence who wrote Tuesday that the GCW was NG last week. HIS name was not in the paper last week, you know.

Tom Meek suggests that I put in somewhere, "aint it grand to be rich."

While I have seen little publicity, and heard none, there is to be an election here on next Saturday, June 6, to determine whether $50,000 in bonds will be issued to provide needed improvements in the City School system. Hope to get details from Bill Pedric in order to tell more next week.

It looks like Grenada is fixing to grow again with an early opening of a MSSA store under the management of Mr. S. P. Dent, soon. Mr. Williamson gave us a copy of Mid-South Cotton News, an interesting farm publication edited by himself.

Weather Note: somebody in the city government has decided that it is too COLD to keep the swimming pool open at night, I hear.

Kirk is either showing intelligent self-interest, or, as Will Hoffa put it, broadly selfish, in hauling out a car load of bread, meat and bananas to be used for a "free" dinner for the hoe hands.

GRENADA INDUSTRIES PLAN ADDITION

Would Provide From 75 To 100 Jobs

Expansion plans for Grenada Industries, Inc., hosiery manufacturers, calculated to employ an additional 75 to 100 people, were announced Tuesday by W. H. Fedric, chairman of the Industrial Committee of the Grenada County Chamber of Commerce.

On Monday, the City Council unanimously approved a request for a $60,000 bond issue to finance construction of the additional 12,500 sq. feet of industrial floor space needed by the plant.

John Lake, president of Grenada Industries, estimated that the increased operation would result in an additional payroll of about $200,000.

The action by the Council followed a meeting of City and Chamber of Commerce officials with Mr. Lake at which time the Board of Directors of the Chamber unanimously went on record in favor of the expansion plans and the bond issue.

The bond issue will be submitted to a vote of the people of Grenada in a special election to be held within the next few weeks. A request has been forwarded to the Miss. Agricultural and Industrial Board for a certificate of public convenience and necessity in accordance with the provision of the state's BAWI laws.

Construction will probably get under way immediately following favorable action on the bond issue, Mr. Lake said.

In urging the support of the city's citizens on the proposal, Mr. Fedric pointed out that the ratio of 75 to 100 employes with a resulting prospective payroll of $200,000 from a bond issue of only $60,000 is one of the most favorable arrangements from the point of view of the City of Grenada that possibly could be obtained.

Chamber President J. H. Oliver expressed special satisfaction over the planned expansion and stated his desire that the people of Grenada will strongly back the project.

This represents the fifth city backed expansion of Grenada Industries following the original bond issue in 1938. Every addition has been overwhelmingly supported by Grenada voters, one of the votes carrying 669 to 0. In less than 16 years of operation here, Grenadians have secn the operation grow from a guaranteed annual payroll of $50,000 to about $2,500,000 payroll.

The funeral was held at 4 p. m. Tuesday at the William and Lloyd Funeral Home in Greenwood. Burial was in the Odd Fellows Cemetery in Greenwood.

—Chapter Two, Next Week—

Intriguing (anyway to the writer) as the long-winded tale about Mabel's and my recent trip is, lack of further space in this issue forces us to publish the next, and last chapter next week. It will tell about our trip to and thru Washington, what we saw in and about Washington and some things seen and impressions gained on our trip back home, again thur Atlanta the huge industrial region along the Southern Railroad in North Carolina and South Carolina.

Negro Wading Pool Almost Complete

Work is almost complete on the wading pool for Negro children at the Colored Recreation Center. The Junior Auxiliary has donated this pool for the children.

The dimensions of the pool are 15 by 40 feet and 20 inches deep. There is a six foot spray pipe in the middle. It is equipped with a drain in tap with a valve causing fresh water to come in and go out continually.

After a fence is built, there will be some ceremony in which a Junior Auxiliary offical presents a key to the fence, surrounding the pool, to an official of the Recreation Center.

Grady Green of Grenada Ready-Mix built the pool.

Mrs. Eddy Embry is chairman of the Jr. Auxiliary committee.

BROOKHAVEN FIRM GETS BID FOR ARMORY

$46,000 Structure To Be Started In June

Morton and Pell, building contractors of Brookhaven, were low bidder on the State Guard Armory to be built in Grenada.

Lt. Col. Harold Biddy, commander of the 234th Field Artillery Batallion, said that construction of the Armory on the Fairgrounds would be well underway in June.

As we have stated previously, the Armory will be one of ten to be constructed in Mississippi. It will be built at a cost of $46,000, the cost to be paid by the State. Grenada is donating hte site of the building.

The committee, appointed by the City Council, to find the site for the Amory, consists of: Col. Biddy, J. E. McEachin and W. H. Fedric.

—Old Landmark Gone—

The "Old Tavern" about a mile northwest of Holcomb was struck by lightning about ten days ago and was entirely destroyed by fire. It was one of the oldest intact homes in Grenada County.

It was built in the early part of the 1800s by Booker Terrell, great-grandfather of Jack and Junius Townes, and grandfather of George Booker Terrell on part of the 16th Section school lands which he leased for 99 years from the State of Mississippi. When this lease "ran out" it was owned by a granddaughter of the original lessee, Mrs. Mattie Terrell Orman, then living in Los Angeles.

It was part of the then land-office town of Tuscahoma, now only a part of the history of this section. At the time it was built, it stood on the high banks of the Yalobusha River and served as a steamboat landing for the community. It also served as a tavern for people traveling on the old stage line connecting old Carrollton and Charleston. It was built of hand-hewn timbers, shaped from the choice trees then abundant. After over a century of occupancy it stood four-square to the world. Since the house was built folks monkeyed with the river so much that the river today is at least half a mile west of its former course.

Mrs. J. E. Little of Holcomb now holds the lease on the property.

Mabel And I Take In Atlanta, Birmingham, Washington; Even Po' Folks Can See Some Of A Fine Country

CHAPTER ONE

Atlanta, Ga., Monday, May 24

Mabel and I got back here tonight at the same motel, the Leland Motel, a few miles west of Atlanta on Highway 78, where we stayed on our trip up the country last Monday night - you know folks go back where they are well treated. I just looked at my "log" and see where we have traveled so far 2052 miles, and yet have nearly 400 before we get back home.

Briefly our itenerary was east to Aberdeen and Guin, Alabama, 78 to Birmingham, where we stayed the night with Mabel's brother and sister, Vic and Ann Erikson, were shown a heap by Ann who is thoroughly at home in Birmingham and seems to know the ins and outs about that industrial city. Kizzie, her colored cook, who raised her fed us mighty well, for supper and breakfast. While we were riding around the city with Ann who showed us both Vulcan, the iron monster, and Vestavia, the replica of the circular house where the Romans used to keep the Vestal Virgins - no doubt so they would stay THAT way - we tried to find Pop Saunders who lives in the beautiful section near Vestavia. We asked some ladies where his street was, and they were vague. However, the telephone found him. It also found Bill Owen and wife, Morrison Thomas, Ernest and Peggy Hardin.

Next day we headed for Atlanta and tied up at Leland Motel, which became our headquarters for an assault on Atlanta. Above everythine else I wanted Mabel to see was Atlanta's famous Cyclorama, depicting in glorious form the historic Battle of Atlanta fought back in the 1860s. Under my guidance which was somewhat vague after about 40 years absence, I finally plioted her down Peachtree and Whitehall, and on out to Grant Park, where the wonderful circular picture is located. There I got to talking to Mrs. Kate Smith (not the radio singer, but the lecturer on the Cycloramaf but we gossiped and talked about our common Atlanta friends, more than we did about her work in the park. We dragged up old man Nat Raysdale, the mayor here when I was here, and his numerous boys and girl's whom both she and I once knew, also dragged up Leo Alkman (now

"on vacation" papering and painting his home in Marietta, jogged and prodded by his wife (of course) editorial writer for the Constitution (and a subscriber of the GCW, also dragged up Marie Alexander (widow of old Alec Tech's famous football coach. Mrs. Smith called Marie for Mabel and me and we chatted a while. Marie said she kept up with thru Leo's frequent comments in the Constitution about the GCW. Mrs. Smith kindly wanted to do some more calling for me. We got back from Grant park alive, in spite of the hellish traffic and came back by my alma mater, Ga Tech, but recognized mighty few things, so great have changes been. I did stop by the drug store on the corner of North Avenue and Lucky Street to see Puss Cox and Fuzzy White but find that they, like old Alec are, dead. Back at our motel I called some old friends. Ben Sinclair got him, and Walter Aichel whom I got on a 2nd try tonight. Ben Sinclair a big official of the Ga Power Co told me the power company was going to name a dam for him near Milledgeville, Ga., and that he was to retire after more than 40 years serice next August. Ben, a tall, hand some fellow, with a romantic scar on his face, used to be the cynosure of all feminine eyes, but he was a fool coy with wimmin. Ben was the envy of all of us other boys as he was a stumbling block in the way of romantic wimmen. But I had better not along. I then left Tom Brown, member of TIME's Atlanta bureau. I never had seen her and sure see her yet. I THINK she is pretty. I KNOW she is smart, otherwise she would not be employed by a big outfit like TIME. I had written her in advance of my coming that I did not want a date with her, just a visit, telephone conversation. I could not get in touch with Tinton one of our Atlanta reporters, but got Joyce to convey a kind message to him. I think he is kinda sweet on Joyce. I confirmed that partially tonight when my 2nd try at a talk with Lexinton was successful. Tonight I was unsuccessful in getting Joyce Brown to make my report for TIME on conditions in Washington. After supper Mabel and I drove back across the Chattahoochie Rier into Fulton County to see Shirley Booth in "Come Back Little Sheba", a picture we had ppreviously missed seeing. There is too much truth, and too little romance in the picture, though it did win an Academy Award.

Next morning we headed east again on 78 and stopped briefly in historic Athens and got a cuppa coffee. Athens, home of one of the nation's first colleges, was early named the home of the University, many welathy Georgia folks moved to Athens to educate their sons, and they built fine old colonial homes of Georgia. As in Oxford, Mississippi homes there. Athens and "Georgia" use dto be anathema to us Ga. Tech boys. Aftre 40 odd years I dont feel that way any more. I'll say this about Athens, Clarke County and that section of Georgia. It is a beautiful rolling farm country, with few unusued red acres. It's either cotton, corn, oats or fenced pastures - little waste land.

From Athens we headed up to Washington, Wilkes County (the county that "went to grass") where the Terrells and William family came from over a century ago. I did not find a soul that ever knew any of them. Next, before we crossed over into South Carolina near McCormick, was Lincolnton, Lincoln County.

It was rather remarkable that, next to the murdered Lincoln was the murderer, Wilkes, and still close at hand, Washington.

At Washington, we elected to go

Guard's Firing Range Practice To Begin

Lt. Col. Harold Biddy was promoted from major to his present rank in the State Guard. He is commander of the 234th FA Bn.

Another item of interest about the Guard is that firing on the range at Camp McCain will be begun this weekend. Units from Grenada, Winona, Eupora, and Okolona which compose the 234th Bn. will be present.

The Field Training dates have been set for all units of the Guard, including Grenada's unit. The training will be July 12 thru July 27 at Ft. McClellan, Ala.

What Never Fails

Lesson for May 31, 1953

WHAT do you wish for, most of all? What do you pray for, most of all? You wish and pray for many things, and this is right; but what is above all? If you take your New Testament seriously, there can be no question about that. You will want above all the thing that is worth more than everything else; you will not be content to ask for less than the greatest thing in the world. You will ask God for love.

Better Than Miracles

Remember, when St. Paul or Jesus talked about love they were not thinking about the thing you hear about from the jukebox at the corner drugstore. They were not thinking about the sort of thing that comes and goes and leaves headaches and heartaches behind. They were not thinking of the kind of love that wants to get, but of the love that wants to give. They meant the kind of love God has and is: the kind of love that transforms the persons to whom it is given. The kind of love that Jesus lived out there in Galilee, the kind that can be lived on any street in the world. The kind of love the Cross stands for. This kind of love, Paul said, is better than miracles. Indeed, miracles are no account without it. When Paul talks of "speaking with the tongues of men and of angels" he is not meaning eloquence, oratory. He means (as you can see from I Cor. Chap. 12) the miraculous "gift" of tongues which the Corinthian church knew. Some of the members there could speak with tongues, some couldn't. Those that could, despised those that couldn't. That's not the point, Paul means to say. The measure of a Christian is not miracles, but love.

Dr. Foreman

Mightier Than the Mind

Love is also better than something else we all admire and would like to have as much of as possible. It is better and mightier than mental genius. The world around us is full of mysteries. A child can ask questions the wise cannot answer. If I only knew! is a thought that has occurred to every one. Each of us thinks he would be happier if he knew all the answers. We feel sure we could do more and be more if our minds were even just a little sharper than they are. But Paul reminds us that even if our prayers for insight and wisdom were all answered, even if we had such wisdom that not a single question would be left unanswered (not that any such thing is likely to happen soon!), we should still amount to precisely nothing, if we did not have love. Paul does not say that mental power is a bad thing; he did not say that miracles are no good. What he does say is that miracles minus love, or mind minus love, will not fulfill God's dreams, nor ours.

Nobler Than Martyrdom

The Christian church has always honored her martyrs, the men and women and children too who have died rather than give up their faith. We are inclined to put martyrs up in the highest bracket of the saints, partly because most of us are sadly aware that we are not the stuff of which martyrs are made. But Paul pulls us up short. Even to be burned at the stake for a righteous cause is still nothing at all, if there is no love behind and in the action.

Love Is the Miracle

Two hesitations cloud the mind. Is it not selfish to ask for the greatest thing in the world? Should we not rather be contented with lesser gifts? The answer to this hesitation is that this divine kind of love is precisely Unselfishness itself. To ask for the grace of unselfishness is surely no selfish prayer. Another hesitation is this: Is not this divine thing, this thing that outlives and outlasts wisdom and miracles and martyrdoms—is not this too high for us? Is it not a miracle itself, so rare we should not know what to do with it if we had it? Well, it is rare indeed, and with the exception of our Lord there was never a life that shone with it from beginning to end. Yet we who have known Christian homes and Christian people have seen this miracle, we have lived in its light. It is a miracle indeed; but it is not one to lift us above the clouds, it is one to keep our feet on the ground.

TRIP TO WASHINGTON, D. C.

on 378 to Columbia, rather than on 78 by way of Augusta, and we went thru some mighty sorry country - a big national forest included - to Saluda, county seat of Saluda County (many county seats in South Carolina bear the name of their counties) where, after eating lunch at the Duffy Cafe, we dropped in and felt the pulse of Editor Johnson of the county paper. He had about the same kind of joint that we have in Grenada and does about the same things. It was a "big day" in Saluda as circuit court was in session. I noted two signs in South Carolina: first, tacked in a forest, "Quiet!! Tree at Work", and another, "Two Wimmen", but failed to find out the significance of that sign. In the rain (the only one we have encountered on the trip) we pressed on to and thru Columbia, Sumner and Bethune to a real haven of rest, the Ingram Hotel Court, right smack in the prettiest town we saw on our trip, Cheraw, Chesterfield County, S. C. Since we had time before dark, we drove around the town, up one street and down another. Unlike Grenada, Cheraw folks had not sold off 40 feet on one end of his lot and 35 feet on one side, leaving only enough unused room to set a hen on. Lots were big; homes handsome, and well set-back from the streets, and well forested. We visited St. David Episcopal Church, erected way back in the 1700s, and poked around in the ancient cemetery. We saw stones marking the graves of members of the Duvall family (probably Corn Proudfit's Carolina folks), and some McLeans, probably Cousin Susie's folks, and of the Thomas family. A large lot of the cemetery contained only late members of the Prince family. There also we saw the graves of the boat captain who commanded the first steamship to cross the Atlantic Ocean. As Grenada once was the head of the navigation for the Yalobusha River and drew cotton and produce from a large section to the east of it, Cheraw was head of navigation for the Pee Dee River which reached the sea near Charleston. Cheraw drew trade not only from immediate sections of South Carolina but from sections of North Carolina up the Yadkin River. Its original prosperity came from cotton; its continued prosperity comes from the soil (it has fine soil nearby) but from a number of small industries. Like Hugh White visualized in Mississippi with balancing agriculture with industry, Cheraw has already done it. It is a very old town, as the markers on many buildings there testify, but it is a prosperous, beautiful town. If it had slum areas, we saw none of them. We went about 700 miles getting to Cheraw and have gone over 1300 since, but have seen nothing like it before or since.

Wednesday morning, we headed north, over the S. C. - N. C. state line to Rockingham, on thru Southern Pines and Aberdeen, but got out of what we considered good farming land near Rockingham and into a long stretch of sand-hill country. With native pines very abundant, the little town of Southern Pines made itself beautiful with those same pines, left standing, not bulldozed out and away. Interspersed with native pines, its streets were lined with native pines and planted magnolias, giving a beautful effect. Like Grenada Bank's sign advised, Southern Pines did the best it could with what it had - pines and magnolias.

Backing up a bit, we finally got on No. 1 Highway at Columbia, S. C. and followed it to Raleigh, the state capitol of North Carolina.

Before we got to Raleigh, Mabel got nostalgic about Williamsburg, capitol of Colonial Virginia. While we left home to go to the nation's capitol, Washington, on No. 1 Highway, we got out the map before we got to Raleigh, and changed our course to go east, instead of north. In Raleigh we got on 64 highway and went thru such fine towns as Wendell, Zebulon, Spring Hope and Nashville on to Rocky Mount, where we turned north on 301 highway, crossed the line into Virginia and reached Emproia, where we turned east again on 58E, but not before passing thru a small town named WhitakerS, named for some of my folks and such other romantic places as Battleboro, Enfield and Hilifax.

Confined, as we were, to a view of the county from a highway, my conclusions may be erroneous, of course, but I could say that, from what I saw, Georgia is primarily a cotton and corn state, South Carolina a cotton, oats, and corn state; North Carolina, a tobacco and corn state; South Virginia, at least the part we saw, a peanut, corn and cattle section. I know that my North Carolina friends and subscribers will chide me, but my honest opinion is this: North Carolina is the sorriest farming state I ever saw in the South, even if, industrially, it has led and is still leading the South. I say this after at least 4 trips on different routes thru the state - but more about North Carolina when I tell what I saw today on our return trip.

While Mabel wanted to make that change in itinerary in order to see Williamsburg again, I wanted to go that way so that I could see and check up on one of my, heretofore unseen friend, Tom Noland, Town Manager of Franklin, Virginia. Tom has been knowing about me a good while, having taken the GCW several years. Tom, with justifiable pride, showed me and Mabel in and thru the handsome, new Town Hall of Franklin, thru the calaboose, integral part of the set-up, into the office of the Chief, into the court room, which also serves the smaller town of Franklin, like Grenada's city auditorium serves a larger community. He introduced us to quite a few of the employees of the town hall, gave us a very handsome state-produced map of Virginia, and would have shown us the whole town, had we had sufficient time. Knowing that Williamsburg was crowded, Tom was kind enough to call the C. of C. in Williamsburg and secure a nice room in a private home on N. Boundry Street for us. Everyone has heard of Smithfield hams, and so had we, so we elected to turn north at Franklin and go by Smithfield and were rewarded by passing thru a wonderful farming country where corn and hogs are twin kings, before we crossed the 7-miles-long bridge across the salty James River into Newport News at the tip of the peninsular section of Virginia, but there was a heap to see between Newport and Williamsburg. While we missed Jamestown, where settlers first landed and where John Rolfe married Pocahontas with one of the Whitaker forbears performing the ceremony, we passed close to the Moore House at Yorktown, where Lord Cornwallis surrendered to George Washington. The route from Yorktown to Williamsburg was built and is maintained by some park service of the Interior Department and is a wonderfully rewarding trip.

At Williamsburg, we secured a comfortable room in the home of the hospitable McGregor couple in their Georgian home on North Boundry Street. Mabel reveled in the architecture and lore of Williamsburg, but I had to have the Pontiac's oil changed, so I did not see much except the printing office of the nation's first newspaper, the Virgnia Gazette, in an early issue of which young men of Virginia were given all kinds of inducements, including land, nails, cattle, hogs and food to go to Georgia to settle. I now see why Cornwallis surrendered. He, like I did, got tired of Yorktown coffee

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS
By Rex R. Blue, SCS

Many farmers throughout the county have applied for and received prior approvals for ACP assistance in carrying out permanent type soil conseration practices on their farms. To date prior approvals have been issued to assist farmers in constructing 137 stock ponds; 49600 linear feet of terraces and diversions; 56900 linear feet of W&V type drainage ditches, and excavation of 16,452 cubic yards of dragline ditches.

Soil Conservation Service personnel assigned to the Grenada County Soil Conservation District are resnonsible for laying out and checking the above practices. In order that farms may be serviced on time, every farmer who has requested assistance for ditching, terracing, or pond construction are urged to make arrangements to have the work done as soon as possible. The work will be done as nearly as possible on a community and neighborhood basis, however ditches, ponds, or terraces, or diversion will be staked out any where in the county upon request.

It is the responsibility of each farmer to make arrangements with a contractor to do the work or he may do the work himself. All permanent type practices must be staked out and approved by SCS personnel before they are built.

JOIN THE "RIDE & READ ROUNDUP" AT LIBRARY

Grenada County Library is going "Western" for the summer months. A club is being organized for the children and young folks to promote vacation reading. The program will get under way Monday, May 18, and will last until late August. Many young cowhands will be roping their first horse when they have read 2 books and they will put them in the first pen.

Horse pens and a larger corral have been constructed on a table and the horses are ready and viewing the landscape with a wary eye. After each reader has ten books to his credit he may turn his horse into the large corral and begin to chase a pony of another color to add to his remuda. A gay Western frieze adorns the wall of the children's section and a very horsey atmosphere is beginning to settle over the library. Many new titles are on display to intrigue the young cowhands and so a good time, as well as a profitable one, is in store forthe young fry. Come on down and join the Roping Party to see how many horses you can catch this summer!

The library will be open 10-12 and 1—6 each day except Sunday. County parents are urged to see that their children have an opportunity to visit the library. Each Saturday when you shop for groceries, drop by the library to pick out books for the whole family. Neighbors might make a car pool to bring in the children twice a month. This would give them plenty of time as the books are checked for two weeks.

If you have a child who was behind in his school work this year, now is the time for him to catch up and improve his reading. If your child is over-bright then he needs an enriched diet of reading to keep him interested and out of mischief. Every effort is being put forth to make this a happy and rewarding experience for the young people and we would appreciate your cooperation.

YOUNGBLOOD NAMED TO HEREFORD ASSOCIATION

Kansas City, Mo. - P. H. Youngblood, Grenada, Miss., was named to membership in the American Hereford Association, the world's largest purebred registry organization, with headquarters in Kansas City, Mo.

We are indebted to Mrs. Evelyn Hamilton of Calhoun City, the author of the article, for permission from the Progressive Farmer, for permission to reproduce the story, "Half Century of Sewing", about Mrs. Ed Spruill of Grenada.

By the way, in Washington I called the po' man's walking bank's son, W. H. Spruill and talked to his wife who was one of the numerous Taylors of Carroll County. Spruill, who works for Sears' had not returned from work when I called. They get the GCW there.

In Falls Church, Virginia, I thought of Caffey who gets the GCW there, but did not call him. Falls Church is just across the Potomac from Washington.

In the long-winded tale about Atlanta, I mentioned Sinclair and Airhel, but did not say that they and I were old school mates at Tech in 1906-1909.

We ate in a lotta places, but nowhere did they have a better cook than Kizzie, the cook of Victor and Ann in Birmingham.

On our return we were happy to see that Whyte Jr., Dorothy and the grandchildren had taken fair care of our stupid canary and our stupid cat, Buckingham.

As a matter of fact, as we ate lunch in the Hotel Collins coffee shop Monday in Jasper, Alabama, I saved back some turkey scraps for Buckingham's supper, but Mabel restrained me, saying that was the way po' folks did. The cat, therefore, had to eat canned mule for supper.

I ought to say, for the record, that Jamie Whitten offered me room in the government garage for the Pontiac while in Washington, but we found space on the curb on 13th Street NW.

A Sign Your Life is in DANGER

You're driving on a dark-surfaced highway. The sky becomes overcast. It begins to rain. Traffic bunches up. You strain to see. "Slippery" warnings keep you tense. Then—suddenly you pass onto light-colored concrete. What a relief! Traffic moves out. No "slippery" signs. You know you're on a safer pavement.

Yes, the difference between a sickening swerve and a safe, quick stop often is the pavement. Concrete grips tires—helps you avoid accidents. Wet or dry, its gritty texture provides uniformly high skid resistance.

Remember, no driver expects trouble but if it comes your chances are much better on concrete pavement.

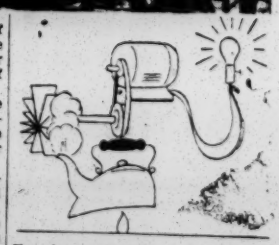
The huge 375,000 lb. generator stator, the heaviest piece of equipment to be installed in the electric power generating plant, required specially built equipment before it could be hoisted some 30 feet off the ground and upon its pedestal from where it will spark the entire Delta region with electrical power.

The focal point of the power plant, the electric generator amasses some of man's most ingenious thinking, as within this steel hull, lined with myriads of different pieces of sensitive equipment, energy is transferred from one form to another, and out of its coils and onto high voltage lines leaps enough electrical power to supply two cities the size of Jackson.

Two of these generators will be installed at the 300,000 horsepower Delta Electric Plant before its completion during the latter part of the year.

To the right is a simple illustration of electric power generated by the thermal, or steam, process. A fuel is burned to heat the kettle (heaters and boilers), which turns the water into steam. The steam turns a paddle wheel (turbine spindle) which is connected to revolving electro-magnets (generator rotor). Around the rotor are coils of wire (generator stator), and as the steam causes the paddle wheel and the magnets to turn, electricity is generated by the



Faraday principle of passing a coil of wire through a magnetic field. Wires (transmission lines) carry the electricity from the generator to the light bulb, or in the case of the power plant, to industry, homes, farms and businesses.

Bride Elect Is Honored

The school cafeteria was the scene of a delightful courtesy when Mrs. Billy Ross James, Mrs. George Leverette and Mrs. W. M. Rook complimented Miss Audie Elizabeth (Polly) Gray, bride elect with a miscellaneous shower.

Tables were decorated in arrangements of roses, sweetpeas, phlox, larkspur and mixed bouquets. Fifty six guests were registered. The hostesses served an appetizing plate with iced drinks.

Congratulations is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Rocha whose marriage was solemnized at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, May 23rd in the home of Rev. J. W. Early in the year the pulpit light disappeared; recently the piano bench was missed and last week the pulpit fan was taken. An appeal for the return of the piano bench was made through this column in the last issue. Again we ask that these pieces of church property be placed back in the church.

The Passing Of Mary E. Hardiman

It was early Thursday morning, May 14, 1953 at 1:30 a. m., that the physical machine of Mary E. Hardiman stopped pulsating, and her soul took its flight to the realms of eternal day where pain and sorrow are felt and feared no more. She had been a diabetic sufferer for 19 years.

The late Dr. J. S. Sharp attended her for a number of years, and after his passing she fell into the competent hands of Dr. F. S. Hill who did all he could to ease and comfort her to the end. She was a familiar pateint at the Clinic, where they had sympathy and respect for Mary.

Mr. G. S. Kent the druggist would give first attention to Mary's prescriptions. All the other merchants and friends everywhere who knew her admired and respected her. The same was attested by the huge bank of floral designs that covers her grave. They did not wait until she was gone to cast their flowers, but they showered them upon her when she could see them, and they help to gladden her weary way. She loved right and honesty. She will be missed by her friends, her societies, her church and her community.

Her place will be hard to fill.

16th Section Lease Holders Called To June 3rd Meeting

Lease holders on all 16th Section land in Grenada County are being called to an organization meeting at the Court House Wednesday, June 3 at 7:30 p. m.

Organizations have already been formed in these counties: Noxubee, Lowndes, Clay, Oktibbeha, Monroe, Choctaw, Winston and Kemper.

In Grenada County, one out of every 36 sections, or rather one section in each township, is 16th Section land. Up until 1948, families and individuals could lease this land for as long as 99 years. In 1948, the law was changed and now leases for only 10 to 25 years can be obtained.

Some families have called these sections "home" for nearly 100 years, have built their homes on the sections and improved them vastly. Due to the short leases, they can feel little security.

The scheme now is to hae the Legislature to pass a law enabling the leasers to buy the land they have been occupying so long.

The lease money which individuals pay to the county for ust of the land is used for support of the schools. In Grenada County, the total revenue from this source is something over $4,000. It is believed that if the land is sold, the interest from this amount would exceed a good deal the amount obtained annually from the leasers.

Charles J. St. John of the Chamber of Commerce in Columbus is helping in the organizations of these groups.

Waldrop-Robinson Vows Said In Church Ceremony Here

A wedding of outstanding social interest was solemnized at the First Presbyterian Church in Grenada on Sunday afternoon, May 24, at four o'clock when Miss Elizabeth Ann Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Robinson became the bride of Mr. Max Lee Waldrop, son of Mr. H. L. Waldrop of Jackson and the late Mrs. Waldrop.

Rev. W. Taylor Clarke officiated, using the impressive double ring ceremony.

The church decorations created a beautiful archway of gardenia and fern entwined coulmns, pedestal baskets of white stock and fern and gardenia entwined choir rail before which the wedding tableau stood. The columns were filled with jade palms. Floor candelabra held lighted tapers.

Mrs. William Lomax, organist and Mrs. R. Semmes, Jr. and Billy Elmore, soloists, presented the nuptial music.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, Miss Robinson was beautiful in an original wedding gown designed by Renee of moon mist rose pattern, import French chantilly lace over magnolia white bridal satin.

The basque of the gown featured minature lace buttons and the decollete portrait tulle yoke was appliqued to the bodice with lace scallops; long sleeves buttoned from the elbow ended in calla points over the hands.

The chapel train, gathered lace skirt, fashioned in a scalloped redingote over period hoops revealed the ruffle upon ruffle nylon second skirt.

Her triple tier waist length veil of misty crystalline bridal illusion fell in numerous natural points from a cloche of lace embroidered in seed pearls.

She carried a white prayer book surmounted by gardenias and lilies of the valley, featuring cascading ribbons caught at intervals by lilies of the valley and tiny sprays of fern. She also carried an heirloom lace handkerchief which was also carried by the late Mrs. S. L. Calhoun on her wedding day.

Miss Mary Frances McElwrath was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Warren W. Robinson, Jr. of Laurel and Mrs. Julius Murray of Smyrna, Tenn. and Miss Mary Lois Gillam of Union City, Tenn.

The bridal attendants wore identical gown of minuet pnik nylon tulle over matching taffeta. The strapless basque were shirred diagonally with inserts of soft pleating across the front. Graceful stoles fashioned at the right side, draped across to the left, forming a decollete heart-shaped neck line. The triple gathered waltz length skirts were graceful over starched petticoats. They wore Madonna caps of minuet pink straw lace flowerettes, centered with pearls attached to brow veils and carried wedding ring bouquets of red delight roses, tied with maline, satin and velvet streamers in varied hues of rose.

Serving the groom as best man was his cousin, Mr. John H. Whitworth of Pontotoc. Groomsmen were W. W. Robinson, Jr., brother of the bride; Jim Stingily of Jackson, John White, Jr. of McComb; Jimmie Knight of Pontotoc, Norman Carnes of Jackson and Bradford Dye, Jr. of Grenada.

Mrs. W. W. Robinson, Sr. wore a handsome Dior original floor-length blue lace dress with matching chantilly lace fitted jacket and trimmed with Dior blue taffeta. She wore a small matching hat and a corsage of red delight roses.

Mrs. J. B. Nichols, foster mother of the groom, wore a beautiful pink taffeta with grey lace over dress. Her pink hat was veil draped and she used pink accessories and wore an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Joseph William Good, grandmother of the bride, wore a Navy sheer, white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

RECEPTION

Immediately after the ceremony bridal pictures were made and a reception was held at the brides parents home on Main Street.

Mrs. Eli Whitaker and Mrs. John Ed Murray welcomed the guests as they arrived, Mrs. W. O. Geeslin presided at the bride's book. Mrs. Fred Griffin presentetd guests to the receiving line.

The traditional bridal white and green were used beautifully in the reception rooms and dining room. Here white gladioli and stocks and ferns were gracefully interspersed with lighted tapers. The buffet held triple branched candelabra holding white tapers accented by tiny white satin bows.

The center of decorative attraction was the brides table which was draped with an embroidered cloth of imported linen. In the center was the four tiered wedding cake, lavishly decorated with filegree, white wedding bells and roses, with silver leaves.

Encircling the cake were gardenias lilies of the valley and ferns. A tiny bouquet of lilies of the valley decorated the top of the cake. Mrs. J. B. Dubois served the cake and Miss Annie Laura Honeycutt served punch. Assisting in the dining room were Mrs. P. H. Youngblood and Mrs. E. C. Hayward.

Mrs George Williams directed the guests to the rooms where the gifts were displayed and where Mrs. Morris Hubbard presided.

Just before the bride and groom left for their honeymoon, a toast was offered by the best man to the happy couple, from a silver cup which has been in the brides family since 1844.

After a wedding trip, they will return to Grenada and then go to Fort Benning, Ga. where the groom is stationed.

Mrs. Street's visit at this time was arranged so that she be here with her beloved parents on her father's birthday, May 17.

Mrs. Street entertained in honor of her father at noon on Sunday, May 17, at dinner. Places were arranged for 14 guests.

The centerpiece was an arrangement of lovely painted daisies and other pastel hued spring flowers.

On Sunday afternoon, May 17, on her husband, Rev. O'Briant's birthday, Mrs. O'Briant held open house honoring him and her daughter. During the hours of 4 to 6, light refresh ments were served. The beautiful birthday cake was a present from Mr. and Mrs. Earl Dennis.

IT'S SAFE TO PLANT COTTON 'TIL JUNE 10

County Agent Tell How To Get Good Yield

(By C. O. Sennett, Co. Agt)

Where necessary, cotton can be planted as late as June 1 to 10 with prospects of bale per acre or better yields provided all recommended production practices are carried out.

Where water has been over the cotton land and the stand is lost, loosen the seedbed and replant. However, do not replant if you have a stand of 50 to 60 percent or better. Cotton tends to branch out and fill in gaps.

Poisoning for thrips control is especially important on late planted cotton. This will help the cotton mature 10 days to two weeks earlier than if control had not been applied.

Where pre-emergence chemical was used at time of first planting of cotton and replanting is necessary, do not re-disc or harrow where 3-chloro-IPC was used. Plant in the clean drill at a depth of one-half to one inch.

If excessive rainfall has destroyed the effectiveness of the weed control chmical and the seed drill is grassy, loosen the seedbed and drag off before planting. Then reuse the chemical as before.

Farmers who have trouble getting good seed to replant or do not have prospects of enough labor to handle as large a cotton crop as they origin ally planted might do well to consider planting a different crop. Among other crops to plant are soybeans, corn, sorghum for silage, hay crops and sweetpotatoes.

Do not let boll weevils and other cotton insects harvest your cotton crop for you. Now is the time to make sure that you have enough poison on hand to handle the situation. Remember—don't just poison any old way at any old time. Proper application at the right time is a must for best results from any of

of the 1953 Mississippi Cotton Insect Control Recommendations. Extension Publication 246. It contains the latest information on when to poison, how to poison, and what insecticides to use.

Dr. Frank Smith Tell Big Fish Tale

Dr. Frank Smith, justice of the peace in Greenwood and brother of several Grenadians, this week is telling some gar fish stories which will put Duke Reynold's 150 pound, 7 ft. long gar in the minnow class.

Dr. Smith said that the biggest gar he knows of was a 14 foot monster which got caught between two cypress stumps in lower Wolf Lake and was used for two years as a footlog.

He writes, "Uncle Billie Hall, Uncle George Terrell and Uncle Henry Moore were well acquainted with this big gar. Tom Hall, Will Hoffa and Will Jennings and I shot a hat full of shot at him with muzzle loaded shot guns. I asked Uncle Billie Hall what became of that Big Boy and he said that it got stuck between some cypress stumps at lower Wolf Lake and was used as a footlog for two or three years. Bob Hall may remember hearing of this big gar."

He continues, "The last time I was camped on lower Wolf was in company of Judge Longstreet, Blanton Duncan, Tobe Wright and Will Jennings.

"Judge Longstreet and his brother Donald Ross, owned a small island on the Gulf Coast on which they had a club house. On one occasion, Judge Longstreet had as his guest a "damyankee" barrister from Boston. Donald met Judge and his guest when they came in from a fishing trip and Donald said "What did you all catch-" and the Bostonian said, "What made you say y'all?" Donald replied, "I did that through courtesy to you, I'm sure yuo never caught a darn thing, but I wanted to show my deference to you as a visitor."

Another fish or "fishy" story is being told by Dr. Smith this week. He said he and a lot of other fishermen were at DeSoto Lake last week when some boys in an outboard motor caught a gar about three feet long.

Dr. Smith said the boys had run out of gas and the gar pulled the boat a quarter of a mile, with the boys whipping it like a jockey would a race horse. Finally they got it whipped down and Billy Smith, the Doctor's son, went out and towed them to shore.

If we had have been stony broken when we got back Monday, we would not have been broke long because Mrs. Cullen of Memphis, down here with Mr. Cullen and Bebe that day to see how the Panola County farm was getting along, paid in $3.

No, I did not see Ike or any other of the big-bellied politicians, though we were in Ike's official home.

I, at the moment, dont know too much about Andrew Kay, but see that, during our absence, he became a new subscriber. Welcome.

—A HALF CENTURY OF SEWING—
(By Evelyn P. Hamilton)

At the age of 11, almost half a century ago, Mrs. Minnie Spruill, Grenada County, Miss., made her first dress. A neighbor explained important stens. From that day, she has made practically all of her wearing apparel.

She began when quite young to sew for other people, and made good money. She is now making garments for the second or third generation, and still sewing for the old customers, too. She made tiny garments for children. Then as they grew up, she made their high school formals and party dresses. She kept them outfitted for their college years. She then fashioned wedding gowns for mnay of the young brides.

Neighbors moved away and still they sent materials back to Mrs. Spruill to make up into dresses. One lady who lives nearly 100 miles away has sent so much material to be made up that she no longer bothers to send any patterns or measurements. Anyway, Mrs. Spruill has a record of the measurements of all her regular customers, and her garments have a professional fit that cannot be had from the best dress shops in town.

Mrs. Spruill has no workshop, but does her sewing in her living room, with sometimes a half dozen neighbors sitting in for a visit. Her only overhead expense is the upkeep of her electric sewing machine.

Her styles and patterns when not selected by the individual come from fashion magazines which she studies faithfully, so that she knows what styles and fabrics are being worn at all times.

She averages from 5-10 garments a week, and the prices range from $2.50 for the simplest cotton frock, to $15 and $20 for formals. But here the similarity to professionalism ends. She charges according to the customer's ability to pay—if it is a widow or someone who is not blessed with too much of this world's goods, she makes a reduction of several dollars in the price. Sometimes she even sews for them for nothing at all. If it is a socalite who must have the best and nicest, and by Saturday night, then she charges a little more. But no matter who the customer is, she always gets her money's worth in quality and workmanship.

GRENADA FARM SELLS SEVEN ANGUS

Grenada Angus Farm recently sold four pure-bred Aberdeen-Angus cows na da bull to Robertson Angus Farm, Columbus, Miss., and a purebred bull each to the Brown Farms, and Sam Balkin Trust Estate, Schlater, Miss.

I believe I saw more Negroes on 7th Street, NW, in Washington than there are in the State of Mississippi.

We recently traveled about 2500 miles to and from Washington and rode over no better stretch of straight, almost curveless, almost level road than No. 8 from the Alabama line near Aberdeen to Grenada. The country is particularly pretty and fertile in the western part of Monroe County and the eastern part of Chickasaw County - in the so-called "lime belt." The route comes thru a fine section of Calhoun County. The section thru Grenada County has the "abandoned" look because of the acquisition of the land for the dam area.

Craig Mullin of Holcomb paid up Tuesday and I told him that he has a bigger herd of cattle down there than I saw in a trip east and north covering 2500 miles.

Miss Mary Clark told me over the phone in Washington to tell her folks down here to write to her.

Mrs. W. G. Spruill came in Tuesdya and authorized us to send the GCW to Mrs. L. W. Love in Jackson and that's exactly what we are going to do. Thanks.

I got some sad news when I got home - that Mr. L. W. Knight - "Uncle Lon" - had died. He is the fellow I used to write about who never came to Grenada except to bail some Little Texas hellion out of jail. Dorothy got the facts and gave him a write-up elsewhere. I knew him and liked him and am going to miss him.

After seeing many other states, I guess I will have to quit saying "po' missip'."

Now since school is out, one lady said that, while she missed the kids being off in school, could stand it

Color Motion Picture Film Tells Story Of Grenada, Miss., Industry Advantages

The publicity committee of Grenada County Chamber of Commerce, of which Mr. John Brewer is chairman, announces plans for the making of a movie of Grenada, Mississippi, for use in acquainting out-of-town groups with its many advantages.

The film will take six months or longer to make and will picture the beauty of Grenada homes and gardens, the dignity of her churches, the progress of her schools, her modern industrial plants, the developments in agriculture, the activities of the social and civic clubs, including all phases of living that go to make Grenada the progressive and pleasant town that it is.

The purpose of this film is to publicize the advantages of Grenada and not to advertise any particular business or type of business. Since it will be impossible to film every concern, a few representative ones that will lend themselves best to a film of this type will be chosen.

After its premier at the Chamber of Commerce banquet, sometime next fall, the film will be available for use by the various civic and social clubs, not only in Grenada, but throughout the State of Mississippi.

This picture will be a 16 mm sound color film using a new sound process that has been developed recently for this type of picture.

Mr. Brewer will make this film with the aid of Juel Batson, Monroe Looney of Radio Station WNAG, E. M. Grimes of the Daily Sentinel-Star and George L. Smith of the Mississippi Power & Light Co. Though filming of Grenada's story will be the work of amateurs, Mr. Brewer states that he believes the film will fulfill the purpose for which it is intended and prove of great interest and educational value.

The script for the narration will be written and edited by Mrs. M. L. Hubbard, with the help of Mr. Grimes. The story will begin with a brief history of Grenada, including the early wedding of the towns of Tullahoma and Pittsburgh in 1836 and the selection of the name for the newly founded city.

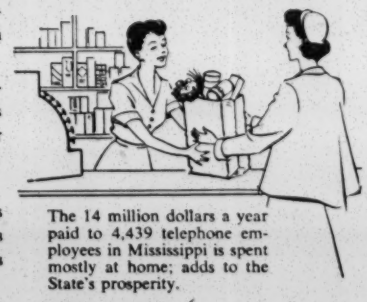
The filming of this picture will not only require many hours of time and hard work and the cooperation of the people of Grenada but much expensive equipment, which is the property of this committee and other interested citizens, all of which is being donated for use in making this movie of Grenada. The only actual cost to the Chamber of Commerce organization is the price of the film.

Making Mississippi's Telephones More Valuable!

As new customers receive their telephones your telephone becomes more and more valuable — because you can call more people and more people can call you.

Adding to our plant in Mississippi to serve more customers will be a full time job for many Southern Bell workers throughout 1953. This year alone, material and labor for new construction in the State will cost approximately 12½ million dollars.

In the last 7 years we've spent over 72 million dollars to improve service and to increase the number of telephones in Mississippi from 115,876 on January 1, 1946 to today's total of nearly a quarter of a million telephones.



The 14 million dollars a year paid to 4,439 telephone employees in Mississippi is spent mostly at home; adds to the State's prosperity.

HEARING AID AUTHORITY TO VISIT THIS AREA

W. F. Hyde, wedely Known Hearing Aid Authority, will be in Grenada County in the very near future to consult with those those who have difficulty hearing or understanding common conversation and speech in Church, groups or other places.

Mr. Hyde, whose visit is sponsored by the Mississippi Hearing Center, Jackson, Miss., as a service to hard of hearing persons, makes no charge for the consultation held in the privacy of the home.

A thorough test of the hearing to determine the degree of hearing loss will be made and then he will counsel as to whether or not a hearing aid will benefit.

If a hearing aid is indicated the use of a tiny, powerful and comfortable aid is recommended. This instrument is very inconspicuous and when fitted it is hardly noticeable.

The consultation is available to all who have difficulty hearing or understanding, regardless of whether or not they are already using a hearing device. To make a FREE appointment, simply address a card or letter to Miss Hearing Center, 506 E. Capitol, Jackson, Miss.

You can do this without obligation or risking a penny, so write TODAY. If you have a friend or relative who is hard of hearing send his name and address for the new booklet "Transistor Hearing At Its Best" —Adv.
